The Heart of Our Offering

In this week's gospel Jesus names what wisdom requires: reconciliation. True worship cannot ignore broken relationships, unspoken harm, or lingering resentment. Justice and mercy are not optional extras of faith; they are central to it. When we work toward peace—whether in our families, communities or wider world—we participate in God's hidden wisdom made visible. Our offerings to God are most authentic when they are accompanied by a commitment to repair what has been wounded. Ponder this week: Where do I see broken relationships calling for healing? How can my faith move me toward reconciliation?

Jim Burnik Tax Refund Memorial Appeal

Every year for the past few years we have put out an appeal to the community to consider donating a portion of their tax refund in memory of Jim Burnik. For those of you that never met Jim, he contributed significantly to our community, being on track for the Diaconate as well as taking much of the burden of the community off of Mother Kae's shoulders. (This was back before we organized into a region/diocese and elected her our first bishop.) Sadly, he passed suddenly but his contributions and influence live on. His widow, Anne, still attends when she is in town and quite frequently on Zoom (she retired to Florida a while back). We would like you to prayerfully consider if you can contribute to the Jim Burnik Tax Refund Memorial Appeal this year. May the Peace of Christ be with you.
